helping leaders & teams reach the 99th percentile

There are seven key drivers that executives and founders need to pay close attention to in order to set up their teams for success. Failure to answer these key questions leads to organizations that stagnate or flounder due to their teams being disengaged. Symptoms include high turnover, lack of innovation, missing targets, and declining customer satisfaction. Cheryl helps executive leadership teams reach the 99th percentile in performance year after year by building rock-solid, aligned organizations.
