BUCKET LIST COACH

I inspire participants to live a regret free life and take action on what really matters to them. Clients experience amazing results and personal growth as a result of our unique goal setting and goal-getting methodologies, lifestyle design practices and group accountability.

I have been trained to change people's perception, wake them up and help them live a Bucket List Life. All participants of our full programs are held accountable to our program through a combination of online and offline activities.

I am set on waking the world up from simply getting by in life. I teach participants to become a leader in their own lives and develop a work-life blend leaving them more fulfilled.

Employee engagement is through the roof and hurting companies' bottom line. Understanding your employees personal goals is crucial to your business' success.

My goal is to get you working on your Bucket List Life right away. You will walk away with action steps to live a life you design and love. If you have employees, you can share the information with them.

It is time to put your self-care first by putting your oxygen mask on first. Then you will be even stronger and healthier for others.
